COXEY TO STAND TRIAL

The Commonweal Leader Arrested on a Warrant.

PROMPTLY ADMITTED TO BAIL.

He and His Lieutenants to be Brought Up on Friday—Kelley Denounces Coxey and Browne—The New England Industrials. A Regiment Forming at Cincinnati.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—When Commonwealer Coxey went to the police court yesterday to testify at the trial of Browne and Jones for disturbing the peace on Tuesday he was at once placed under arrest on a warrant sworn out Tuesday night. Later in the day Coxey and Jones were let out on bail, Frank Hume, a well known wholesale grocer doing business in this city but living in Alexandria county, Va., going on their bonds. The trial of Browne, Coxey and Jones was postponed until Friday.

The three men have a considerable array of Populist lawyers to defend them, their counsel including Representatives Pence of Colorado, Baker of Kansas, Kem of Nebraska, Boen of Minnesota, and Adjutant General Tarsney of Colorado, a brother of Representative Tarsney of Missouri.

Several members of Coxey's army walked through the White House grounds yesterday. Two of them expressed a desire to enter the building, but they were induced to abandon their plan by a couple of detectives in citizen's dress. There was no disturbance of any kind, and the president held his usual afternoon reception without incident.

Affairs at the camp of the Army of the Commonweal are in a very quiescent state. There have been no disorders or demonstrations of any kind requiring the large force of regular and special policemen who are stationed at and in the vicinity of the camp. The Commonwealers have apparently settled themselves down to a temporary period at least of comparative inactivity. The camp grounds have been a dumping place for refuse, and trash is scattered indiscriminately about the grounds. Some attempt is being made to improve the appearance of the place, and many of the members of the army were engaged in piling up bricks and otherwise putting things in ship shape.

Quite a large crowd gathered at the camping ground last evening to listen to J. S. Coxey on the nation's finances. Mr. Coxey intends to continue to speak each evening until his bills are passed. The camp had been thoroughly cleaned during the day, and a large portion of the ground was covered with clean straw. A large tent has been loaned for the use of the men, and it will add materially to the comfort of the Coxeyites.

KELLEY PLAYS BASEBALL.

The Industrial Leader Disgusted with Coxey and Browne.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 3.—Kelley's Industrial army made no visible progress toward the national capital yesterday, indulging instead in the national game, Kelley's industrial nine making its first appearance on the diamond, crossing bats with the Des Moines Stars. Twenty-five cents admission was charged, and a good sized crowd attended. Kelley stripped off his coat and shoulder straps and played first base. He coached his men and pounded the elusive curves of the Des Moines pitcher in a manner highly satisfactory to his audience. The general showed himself a very fair player, and he sprinted with all the energy of a professional. The gate receipts were turned over to the industrials. The Stars won the game by a score of 6 to 5.

Kelley is still indignant over Coxey's clash with the Washington authorities, and placed all the blame with the Commonwealers. He said Carl Browne was an ass; declared that Coxey showed no generalship, and asserted that the Industrial army would have no such trouble when it arrived in Washington.

The offer of the Great Western railroad to carry the men to Van Wert for $2 per head was formally withdrawn, and the action has further incensed the labor organizations. They claim that the refusal is another evidence that the railroads have combined against Kelley and are forcing the minor lines to follow their example. It is rumored that Master Workman Sovereign has received encouragement from President Debs, of the American Railway union, and that the latter will be in Des Moines soon. A secret conference of labor leaders was held in Trades Assembly hall, at which it was confidently stated that Kelley will secure transportation.

NEW ENGLAND'S INDUSTRIALS.

Swift's Men Receive an Excellent Reception in New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, May 3.—The whole New England contingent of Coxey's army, including General Swift's industrial delegation, reached New Haven last night. There is a small squad, organized Tuesday in Norwich, the only New England detachment of the army moving on to Washington that has not reached New Haven. General Swift's Boston industrials slept Tuesday in Guilford. The townspeople felt ugly toward them, and were inclined at first to let them sleep on the green. A few citizens finally took pity on the men, and induced the selectmen of the town to donate a barn to the half dead travelers. The citizens refused to contribute any food. During the night a skunk got into the barn, and half the little army had their clothes ruined and buried them in a lot before leaving Guilford. At Branford Swift's men had a fair reception from the citizens, being given a dinner on the green.

The industrials tramped into New Haven at sundown, and marched through the principal streets to the green. The labor organizations and Socialistic societies provided a place for Swift's men, and here they gathered. Not since they left Boston were they so royally received. They had soup provided by a local saloon keeper, meat, vegetables and pineapples, and were waited on by women of the Social Labor union. Then each man was given a supply of tobacco, the first received since leaving the Hub. It has been determined to walk to Bridgeport, and there take the boat for New York.

Industrials Held for Toll.

ST. LOUIS, May 3.—"General" J. K. Morrison's army of Coxeyites made a start for Washington. They got as far as the entrance to the big bridge across the Mississippi river, and there met a refusal on the part of the bridge officials to allow them to cross without paying bridge fare. The police at hand were strong enough to enforce this contention, and the army camped on the spot, while couriers went out for necessaries.

Chicago's Army Increasing.

CHICAGO, May 3.—Randall's army of unemployed marched from Grand Crossing to Hammond, Ind. More recruits than deserters were reported and the ranks contained 600 men when the march began. A company of war veterans numbering ten men was made up and placed at the head of the column. Orders were issued by Randall to receive no more recruits unless they brought with them one day's rations.

Cincinnati's Industrial Army.

CINCINNATI, May 3.—Labor union leaders are trying rates for box cars to carry from 3,000 to 7,000 unemployed to Washington on May 15. While they propose to co-operate with Coxey they will go there to urge the passage of the Davis bill to make good the fifty millions lost on national currency since the war and for a large appropriation for irrigating western bad land.

Galvin's Army Well Provided For.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 3.—Galvin's army remained in camp on Wheeling Island yesterday, fed liberally by the city. A mass meeting at Trades Assembly hall was addressed by Galvin, Major Beasly and others. Commissary Boyce left for Pittsburg yesterday to arrange for quarters and sustenance. The army left for there today.

THE NATION'S LAWMAKERS.

Mr. Johnson Wants the "Cruel Beating" of Tuesday Investigated.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The influence of Coxey was felt in the house yesterday, and showed itself in a resolution offered by Mr. Johnson (O.), asserting that the privileges of the house had been assailed by the "cruel beating" of men by the district police in the plaza of the Capitol on Tuesday. After some discussion the speaker ruled that it did not present a question of privileges, and Mr. Johnson withdrew it "for revision." The river and harbor appropriation bill was considered without reaching a conclusion, and at 5:15 the house adjourned.

The senate proceedings were rather dull, most of the afternoon being consumed by Senator Squire, of Washington, who made a carefully prepared speech in general opposition to the tariff bill. Before the tariff bill was taken up Mr. Hoar tried to pass his anti-lottery bill, but it met with considerable opposition from Senators Vest and Gorman on the ground that it would interfere with raffles and drawings at church fairs, and made participants guilty of felonies. Ultimately the bill went over without action.

Jersey's New Political Party.

TRENTON, May 3.—"The New Political Party" is the name of an infant factor in New Jersey politics which was organized yesterday at a convention held here. Organization was effected by electing Thomas H. Proctor of Vineland, president; John Hossack of Jersey City, secretary; W. B. Ellis of Trenton, treasurer. The committee on platform reported in favor of a graduated income tax, the abolition of the electoral college system, reorganization of the New Jersey judiciary, reduction in telegraph, freight and express rates. Resolution of sympathy for Coxey were passed, and the members of the New Jersey legislature who voted against the referendum were denounced as the enemies of labor.

The President to Visit Fredericksburg.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Unless something unforseen prevents the president will participate in the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the Mary Washington monument at Fredericksburg, Va., on the 10th inst. He will make the trip in a special train, and will not be able to devote more than one day to the occasion. His plan is to leave here early on the morning of the 10th and leave Fredericksburg the same afternoon, so as to be in Washington again early in the evening. Several members of the cabinet will accompany the president, but Mrs. Cleveland will probably not go.

THE COAL STRIKE SPREADS.

Hundreds Being Added Daily to the Army of Unemployed.

ST. LOUIS, May 3.—Proceeding to execute their threat to force every mine operator for the St. Louis market to close, the Belleville men, who began their crusade by forcing out the coal miners at Collinsville, Ills., marched upon the Glen Carbon miners, and the latter were prevailed upon not to work. They are nearly 2,000 in number, and employes of the Madison Coal company. Efforts are also being made to force out this company's men at Edwardsville, Mt. Olive, Clyde and Gillespie, but so far unsuccessfully.

OTTUMWA, Ia., May 3.—The state miners' convention was held at Albia. Four thousand miners were represented by delegates from Marion, Waupello, Polk, Boone, Appanoose, Mahaska and Keokuk counties. A strike was ordered, which affects 9,000 men.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 3.—All the men employed at the Elm Grove coal works, the only mines between Wheeling and Pittsburg that have been running, quit work and joined the strikers' union here. Not a mine is now at work in this district.

DULUTH, May 3.—Telegrams were received by Sheriff Sharvey from every mining center of the Mesaba range stating that strikers had stopped work at every mine, and that the situation was critical.

CLINTON, Mo., May 3.—The miners at Lewis have gone on strike. Those at Calhoun also went out. The coal miners' union representative has gone to Deepwater and Brownington to try to induce the miners at those places to strike.

Death of a Venerable Virginia Judge.

NORFOLK, Va., May 3.—Yesterday afternoon Judge George Blow died at his home on Boush street, after confinement to his bed for two weeks. He had nearly reached his 81st birthday. Judge Blow was educated at William and Mary college and at the University of Virginia, and admitted to the bar in 1833. He practiced his profession until 1840, at which time he went to Texas and was elected to the congress from that republic in 1841. At the expiration of his congressional term in Texas he returned to Norfolk, and was a member of the Virginia secession convention in 1860, and served throughout the war as a lieutenant colonel. After the war he became a circuit court judge.

Deposed by His Bishop.

DENVER, May 3.—Rev. T. H. Malone, pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church in this city, has been suspended by Bishop Metz on the charge of citing him into court as a witness. A few days ago the trustees of the church sued Father Malone for $11,000, which the bishop claimed was due. This suit was brought for the purpose of showing that there actually was a shortage in the pastor's accounts. Investigation before a referee showed that the church owed Father Malone $1,600. The bishop yesterday secured an injunction from Judge Bentley forbidding further proceedings until after a hearing in court.

Terrific Explosion of Gas.

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 3.—A terrific explosion of escaping gas occurred in the Roggi building, on Morris avenue, blowing a portion of the side of the structure into the street. The gas was ignited and set fire to the building. The explosion and fire caused a panic among the inmates, who rushed from the building, miraculously escaping injury from the falling walls. Edward Blume, a plumber, was found in the ruins unconscious, suffering from serious burns and other injuries.

Serious Forest Fire.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., May 3.—The village of Ganister, about eight miles from this place, was yesterday the scene of a serious forest fire which at one time threatened to wipe out the town and greatly endangered Point View, a summer resort nearby. A large force of Pennsylvania railroad workmen and two fire engines went from here to aid the imperilled village and the fire is now under control.

The Murderous Priest Arraigned.

CINCINNATI, May 3.—Father O'Grady was arraigned yesterday for the murder on April 25, on account of jealousy, of Mary Gilmartin, the girl he followed from Ireland. Judge Kumler continued the case until next Monday, when he told the defense that the plea on the indictment for murder in the first degree must be made.

What Will Do It?

MEDICAL writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces.

The history of the efforts to treat catarrh is proof positive that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely,s Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. Our druggists keep it.

THE RIOTS CONTINUE.

Cleveland Police Fight a Mob of Two Thousand Rioters.

WORKING MILL MEN ATTACKED.

They Are Driven from Their Factories by Howling Mobs, Which Are Finally Put to Flight by the Police—Many of the Gang Severely Clubbed.

CLEVELAND, O., May 3.—The disorders which began Tuesday with the May Day demonstration of the unemployed culminated yesterday in open riots. There were three separate and bloody conflicts between the police and the rioters, and today the police are under arms ready to respond to call in case of an emergency. The worst is believed to be over, however.

The trouble began in the forenoon, when a mob of about 2,000 started to raid the factories on the flats and drive from work the men employed therein. The first attack was made at the Variety iron works. The windows of the factory were smashed with stones and bricks, and the workmen fled in a panic. A force of seventy-five policemen was then called in. The rioters proceeded to the Upson bolt works, where 1,500 men were induced to quit work before the officers arrived. When the police came upon the scene the men made a stand and hurled bricks and stones at the officers. Orders were given to charge them with clubs. The rioters ran like sheep at the first assault, but their leaders succeeded in rallying them upon the Abbey street viaduct.

Squads of police coming up at both ends of the bridge penned in the crowd, and they were forced to fight their way out. They made a rush for the officers, but at least a score were clubbed unmercifully before they finally succeeded in getting away. During this conflict two anarchists were arrested after a terrible struggle on their part. One of them, Thomas Moore, an old man, was clubbed into submission and taken to the station in a patrol wagon, cursing the police and declaring that this was the happiest day of his life. The firmness of the police had a good effect, for it resulted in scattering the rioters in all directions.

In the south end of the city, at the same time, a mob of 500 men drove the workmen away from the United States Salt works and were about to make a raid on the Cleveland rolling mills. They were met by Police Director Herbert and a squad of ten policemen, who clubbed them until they were glad to run. At least thirty men were injured in this melee, but the mob was dispersed.

Mayor Blee issued a proclamation commanding people to not assemble on the streets, and at the same time he called upon the Cleveland Grays, the Gatling gun battery and the resident companies of the Ohio National Guard to assemble in their armories and await his call. There was a ready response to the call, and at least 500 men are under arms awaiting any emergency that may arise.

Bowen, 45 years of age, assistant general manager, scalded about the arms.

A BOMB OUTRAGE AVERTED.

Coke Strikers Were Prepared to Blow Up a Big Plant.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa., May 3.—The first attempt to introduce dynamite in behalf of the coke workers was frustrated here, thanks to the vigilance of General Superintendent Ramsay, of the Southwest Connellsville Coke company, and the prompt action of Sheriff McCann. A week ago Mr. Ramsay got reliable infoumation that the strikers intended blowing up his company's "A" plant at Morewood. Mr. Ramsay at once consulted with the sheriff and as a result suspected parties were put under the closest surveillance, which ended in locating them while putting the finishing touches on the bomb in the woods on Sand Hill, a half mile north of town and less than a mile from the shaft which the infernal machine was intended to destroy.

The sheriff took six of his most trusted deputies on duty at Morewood and drove to the woods. The little party quickly surrounded the suspected point, closed in, and the astounded quartet of plotters were handcuffed prisoners the next moment. The bomb, a metal ball, wire covered and filled with dynamite, was found hidden in a pile of rails, and was taken along with the prisoners to the Greensburg jail. Its weight is given at over twenty pounds. The prisoners are Edward Davis, a younger brother of the imprisoned United Mine Workers' president; William McCracken, both of this place, the latter not yet of age, and two foreigners. Davis and McCracken claim they had no hand in making the bomb, and were present by accident.

Two Killed by Exploding Benzine.

NEW YORK, May 3.—An explosion of benzine or naphtha, it is not certain which, occurred in the scouring and dyeing works of C. Jolly & Sons, Twelfth street. In a moment all the persons in the building rushed into the street, and two or three were on fire. Fifteen persons, mostly women, were employed in the building. Four of the women were so seriously burned as to require the attendance of an ambulance surgeon. The building was completely gutted. One corpse was carried out so badly burned that identification was impossible. It is supposed that it was Leopold Schoneau. Further search disclosed the body of a woman. It also was burned so that it could not be identified. A Mrs. Floorman who worked in the basement is missing.

Saloonists Cannot be Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Postmaster General Bissell has formulated a policy of barring saloon keepers and bartenders from appointment as postmasters. In accordance with this plan where there are several candidates the fact that any of them has had business dealings with saloons will be given weight, and the other candidates will be given preference in making appointments. Postmaster General Bissell says that any man directly or indirectly interested in the liquor business is in a measure unfitted for a full and capable discharge of his official duties in any branch of the postal service.

To Reopen Abandoned Mines.

ASHLAND, Pa., May 3.—A deal has been closed by which S. A. Riley & Co. become the owners of over eight miles of coal lands formerly owned by the Locust Mountain Coal and Iron company. The tract extends from Big Mine Run to Locust Summit, and runs along the northern border of Ashland. The Big Mine Run colliery, recently owned and abandoned by the Taylor estate, and the Repeplier & Heilner workings, at one time operated by the Reading company, are included in the deal. The company intends opening up the veins, which will give work to many men and boys.

Fought Twenty Rounds to a Draw.

RIDGEWAY, Pa., May 3.—The bantamweight fight between Jake Levison of Dubois and Oscar Simons of this place, started near midnight here, was finished at an early hour in the morning. The battle was a fierce one from the start to the finish. At no time during the fight was it possible to pick the winner. Levison strained his left hand in the third round. The fight was declared a draw at the end of the twentieth round. Levison's wrist had swollen so from the sprain that when the fight ended the glove had to be cut from his hand.

Great Northern Strikers Win.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 3.—The strike on the Great Northern railroad, which involves 5,000 employes on its 3,700 miles of line, and which has suspended traffic, both freight and passenger, for two weeks, is over. This was accomplished by adjudication of the claims of the employes and the road rather than by arbitration, the court being a joint committee of the representatives of the leading business organtions. The strikers gain nineteen-twentieths of the points made.

TARIFF COMPROMISE.

Claims of Senators Who Favor Speedy Passage.

MR. HILL'S VOTE UNNECESSARY.

The Men Who Are Engineering the Compromise Claim Forty-three Votes Without That of the New York Senator—Will Pass Before June 1.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—While the reports early in the day indicated that there might be some difficulty in agreeing upon a tariff bill, the conferences which were held by the leaders on the Democratic side of the senate yesterday afternoon seem to have been in the interest of harmony, and what lack of confidence there was among those who hoped to secure a compromise disappeared. Among those who were engaged in the conferences were Senators Jones, Brice, Gorman and Cockrell, while Senator Hill was present part of the time. It is the position of the New York senator that has caused some trouble, and there are a number of senators who believe even now that Mr. Hill will not vote for the bill with the income tax provision, and it is almost as certainly understood that the income tax will remain.

The senators who are engineering the compromise are counting on forty-three Democratic votes, and they believe they will be able to control that number beyond doubt. This indicates that they hope to pass the bill even with the opposition of Mr. Hill, and it certainly indicates that the bill has probably been made satisfactory in other respects to Senators Murphy of New York and Smith of New Jersey.

Senator Brice, who is more outspoken than any of those who participated in the conference, said:

"In an interview a few days ago I said that a tariff bill had been agreed upon and would pass, and I now reiterate that statement. I will not say anything as to details, but a bill has been agreed upon. The statement I made at that time that the Democratic leaders had agreed and would pass a bill was a great help in carrying the Third Ohio district by the Democrats, and I now assert that what I then said was true, and that a tariff bill will pass."

Senator Brice was asked if there was any doubt about any Democratic senators not voting for the bill, and he replied that he could not say how senators would vote.

The Republicans assert that they know positively of some of the changes made, and claim that the bill will be materially altered.

The fact that when Senator Squire had finished his speech yesterday no effort was made to further press the consideration of the tariff bill, and that other bills were considered and an executive session held without opposition by the Democratic leaders is taken to mean that the compromise is about completed, and that it may be ready to report in a short time. Late in the afternoon it was stated that the vigorous pressing of the tariff bill would be postponed until the new amendments were reported, as it was understood that better arrangements can be made for the consideration of the bill when the amendments are announced. It is then believed that the Republicans will agree to some arrangement by which the consideration of the bill may proceed without resorting to harsh methods, as the Republicans, it is thought, will concede the passage of the bill if forty-three Democratic votes are guaranteed for it.

The assertion is made on good authority that by unanimous consent a day would be fixed for a final vote upon the bill. A leading Democratic senator, while not committing himself as to the day, predicted that the bill would be disposed of before the 1st of June.

Charged with Cruelty to Paupers.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 3.—The state board of charities, at the instance of Governor Pattison, has for some time past been conducting an exhaustive inquiry into the administration of the county almshouse in this city. Specific charges are made against Mrs. Webber, the maton, who is accused of extreme cruelty to some of the inmates. The charges were made by the president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, and the testimony taken thus far covers several hundred type written pages.

"ADAMANT" WALL PLASTER!

The New, Cheap Substitute for Common Plaster.

It is very hard and very adhesive; it does away with the warping and shrinkage of doors and casings, and the building is not saturated with water, as is necessarily must be when common plaster is used; it costs originally but little more than lime plaster, and in the end its superior qualities make it immeasurably cheaper; it saves waiting several weeks or months for the buildings to dry out; it does not crack or fall off, even in the case of leakage; it is applied easily by any good plasterer; it is the only material with which repairing can be done neatly and "to stay."

LANDING OF THE PILGRIMS.

When the sound of creaking cordage
Ceases and the gangway's down,
O'er it troop the folks from Sweden
To a land to them unknown.
Ask what place they want to go to,
"Vanta—gota—Minne-sota!"

Smiling girls with yellow hair,
Dash of red in either cheek,
Blue eyed, plump and very fair,
Scarlet lipped, expression meek—
Lord! since Sweden's sent her quota
I' vanta—gota—Minne—sota!"
—Philip L. Barker in Chicago Record.

WALTZED HER AWAY.

All society was agreed upon one point—that for me there were but two suitable fiances—my cousin Gontran, the duke de Lannis, and the Duke de Courtalin.

I saw him—at the ball of the De Fresnes. He did me the honor to dance three times with me, and I went home absolutely intoxicated with joy. But the joy was of short duration, for the next day he said to his brother, who told his sister, who told me:

"It seems that I am to marry my cousin Marceline. Last evening I was literally thrown into her arms. Out of pure goodness of soul I took pity on the poor little schoolgirl and danced with her three times. But there must be no more of it. I have not yet had enough of life. Besides I know of nothing more ridiculous than marriage between cousins."

But that was not all. He also said to Robert, "I saw her in evening dress last night for the first time, and she is so thin."

That night, after Gabrielle had told me all this, I disrobed before the mirror and studied my poor little shoulders with their great hollows and had a fit of weeping. Mamma came in the middle of it.

"My angel, what is it?" She took me in her arms.

But I could not speak. The tears choked me. "My treasure, you pain me. Speak, dearest."

Then, to reassure her, I managed to say between my sobs: "It is because I am thin, mamma! Gontran, last evening, thought I was so thin!"

Thereupon mamma began to laugh. She told me that at 17 she was much thinner than I, and she assured me very solemnly that I would certainly develop.

That winter of my first season mamma took me to a dozen great affairs, but they were occasions of mourning and sorrow, for Gontran was not there.

He did not want to marry. He even told me so. I did not know then that this was by order of my mother.

One day about 4 o'clock in the afternoon—it was the second day of June—mamma came into my room with a look on her face that was new to me. "My child," she said, "my child."

She had no need to say more. I understood. All the evening before at the Prince de Vearn's M. de Courtalin had been with me, and the next morning his mother had told mamma that her son knew of nothing more beautiful than my face.

Mamma tried to make me listen to reason. If I refused him, I threw away a splendid chance. The Duke de Courtalin was the mark at which all the maternal guns were pointed. Great name, great position, great fortune.

For me, I had but one word to oppose to all those just and proper remarks—Gontran! Gontran! Gontran or the convent, and the most severe convent at that—Carmel.

M. de Courtalin was perfection. I listened to his praise all the afternoon and hated him. The more he was eulogized the more I turned from him. With Gontran I could be quite at my ease, for he never impressed one with his superiority. I knew but little, but my ignorance, compared with his, was erudition.

Mme. de Courtalin had called to ask my hand for her faultless son. I do not know what mamma said to her after my refusal. I only know that I was left for awhile in peace.

And where was Gontran through the long summer? Making a tour of the world very quietly and quite at his ease.

I learned afterward that this also was mamma's doing; that when he was in Japan he had brought me a number of lovely little things, placed in a tiny case that bore my name. The case had been sent to mamma, but I had never seen it.

All that year one name was sounded in my ears—Courtalin, Courtalin, always Courtalin. He had all the virtues under heaven. My determination began to weaken, I say it to my shame.

After all, what advantage there was in being a married woman! Absolute freedom would be accorded me. The thought of being a duchess was not displeasing.

All winter mamma displayed perfect taste and exquisite sweetness. She never urged, never tormented me. I knew, however, that she said to her friend, Mme. de Nellis, "My dear, she will yield before the 20th of June. It must be."

On that date we left Paris for Aix-les-Bains.

And I did not continue to grow thin with the fatigues of last year. I only awaited Gontran's return. I knew that he would reach Paris on the 10th of April. The following day he would certainly come to see us.

And so it happened. He called at 2 o'clock. I left mamma before she completed her toilet. I was alone. I ran to him.

"Ah, Gontran, how happy I am to see you!"

And I kissed him without ceremony. He kissed me in return, was very much affected and began to speak such pretty, kind words that my heart melted. He found me a new creature. I was no longer thin. I had grown taller and fuller.

But just then mamma came in, then papa and then my brother George. An odious conversation regarding the merits of English and French boats followed—how the French boats made better time, how the food on them was so much finer, and so on. It was so enjoyable!

It was not until three days after that we met him again, by accident, but he was no longer himself. He was icy. His good morning was icy; the shake of his hand was icy; his words icy. He was awkward and embarrassed. He quickly lost us in the crowd and reappeared no more.

I returned to throw myself once more into the arms of my mother and cry out, "Yes; I shall marry De Courtalin."

How many times between that and the 17th of May did I repeat the operation! It came to be a settled thing that no sooner did mamma see me appear than she mechanically opened her arms to receive her daughter, crying, "Yes; I will marry Courtalin," and soon after, "No; I will not!" But the "I will not!" became more and more rare.

M. de Courtalin was a model of tact, of kindness and of resignation. He waited, always in black, always buttoned, with inexhaustible patience. Mamma was invariably engaged with Mme. de Courtalin.

At last the 17th of May arrived. It was tacitly understood that upon that evening I would say yes to the patient lover, and the engagement would be formally announced before all the world. I was restless all day and glad when 11 o'clock in the evening found mamma and me at the home of Mme de Vernieux, who was giving a great ball.

As I entered I became suddenly aware that I was the center of attraction. A line had formed itself on either side, and little ohs! of surprise and ahs! of admiration went deep into my heart.

M. de Courtalin came up to us. He wanted to ask my hand for all the waltzes, for all the quadrilles, for all the evening, for all my life.

I answered: "Later on. Presently. I feel a little fatigued."

My eyes roamed listlessly over the ball room and perceived, with a start, two other eyes, fixed, settled upon me—two eyes that I knew well, but found it difficult to recognize, so big had they grown in that concentrated, wondering look.

Suddenly their owner arose and turned toward me. A glance aside showed me Courtalin slowly and laboriously making his way toward me from another corner. My cousin looked at the same time and saw him.

Then it became a race between the two men. Gontran intrepidly cut through all the waltzers, but he reached me before Courtalin. He came up to me precipitately. He caught my hand; he put his arm about me.

We danced gayly, wildly, furiously. What a waltz! He said to me: "I love you: I love you! You are grace and beauty itself. There is not another woman here half so lovely! And it is I who shall marry you! Do you hear? I, and none other!"

"Ah, my dear, if you had not come tonight, my engagement to M. de Courtalin would have been officially announced tomorrow."

"Yes, but I have come, and I am here holding you fast. I have discovered that there is not another woman like you. I love you!"

"Slower, slower, I pray you. I am falling. Everything is turning around. Stop!"

"No, no; we shall not stop. If we stop, your mother will stop us, and I have more to say to you—much more. Swear that you will be my wife."

"Yes, I swear it. But enough—enough"——

He held me so tightly, and his face was pressed so close to my face, his lips so close to mine, that I grew suddenly faint and slipped down into his arms.

The next day our engagement was announced. The waltz had created a scandal. It was imperative.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

A Story Lincoln Told Grant.

Chronologically the talk had come to Grant's journey east to assume general command and his first meeting with Lincoln. "Did he give you his impression of Lincoln when he returned from that interview?" I asked.

"Not exactly," answered Colonel Grant. "You see, I was with him at the time."

"In Washington?"

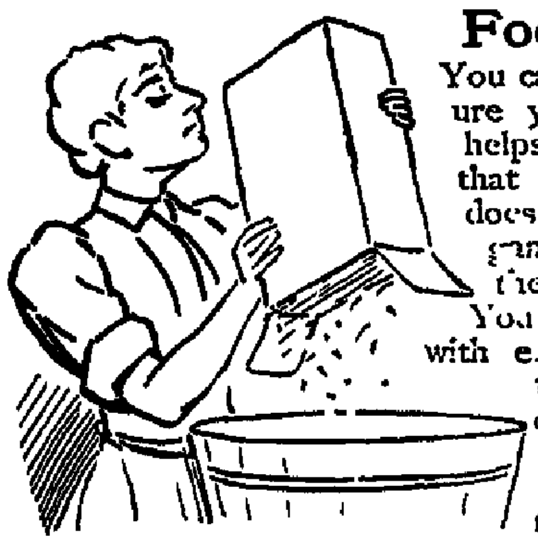
"Yes. In Washington and in the White House, with him and Lincoln."

"Is it true that Lincoln quoted a story about Captain Bob Shorty and the Mackerel brigade from the Orpheus C. Kerr papers to your father at that meeting?" I asked.

"Very likely, though I don't remember. The story that I do remember hearing him tell my father that day was about Jocko. Jocko was the commander of an army of monkeys in a monkey war, and he was always sure that if his tail was a little longer he could end the monkey war. So he kept asking the authorities of the monkey republic for more of a tail. They got other monkey tails and spliced them on his. His spliced tail got too long to drag after him, and they wound it around his body. Still he wanted more, and they wound his spliced tail about his shoulders. Finally it got so heavy that it broke his back. Mr. Lincoln applied the story to the cases of generals who were always calling for more men and never did anything with them."—McClure's Magazine.

Shrubs For Shady Places.

The fragrant bush honeysuckle does finely in such a place. The flowering raspberry grows in the greatest abundance wild in hollow and moderately damp places in woods. Snowberry and red Indian currant bushes do nicely in shady places; so do common privets. Most all kinds of trailing honeysuckles thrive in the shade so far as growing well is concerned; so do trailing roses like Wichuraiana nitida and lucida grow in the shade. In dry, somewhat shady ravines barberry bushes, sweet fern and wax myrtle are at home, and in the better ground mahonia shrub, yellow root and evergreen euonymus should thrive. Then there are mountain laurel, wild rhododendrons, blueberry and upland huckleberry bushes, maple leaved viburnum and lots of others.



Foolish Woman!

You can't spare the time to measure your Pearline? Well, that helps us, but it's lucky for you that an overdose of Pearline does no harm. It's only extravagance. Beware of a dose of the imitations.

You can get just as good work with enough Pearline as with too much. Use it as it ought to be used, and don't waste it, and you can't think that it's expensive. To get the best results from Pearline, use it just as directed. You'll save more of everything than with anything else. If your grocer sends you an imitation, return it, please. 388 JAMES PYLE, New York.

A CATECHISM.

WHAT should make any boy or girl ambitious and determined to accomplish great events in the world? Nothing but the stories of those who have accomplished great things already.

What stories of those who have accomplished great things would naturally be most interesting to young people? Naturally the stories of those who are living to-day and of whom the young are reading constantly.

Is there no way in which boys and girls may be given this information within the limits of a single volume? The work now being issued, entitled

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

Supplies the need completely. This remarkable work should be in every house where there are children. It consists of 16 parts of 16 pages each, each page containing a splendid recent portrait, 10x14 inches in size, of some prominent living American man or woman, and having beneath it a story of the life of each, telling what each one has accomplished and how it was done. Could anything be better for boys or girls? Could there be anything better calculated to give them

A Knowledge of People and Events,

To teach them indirectly the history of their time, and to make them emulous and ambitious and earnest to accomplish something! Children, as well as grown people, like to look upon

The Faces of the Great

Politicians they read about in the newspapers, and of the authors whose books they have read. Just to look upon the face of a person tells half that person's story, and what is lacking is, in this instance, made up by the biography which appears below each portrait. The work is one which will make from among the children who read it a great many men and women of importance in the United States. It is an easy matter to get it and have it as a permanent possession in every household. It can be secured almost without cost and with very little trouble. The manner in which this may be done is as follows:

INGERSOLL ON COXEYISM.

[illegible] in False Ideas of Government.

Robert G. Ingersoll, who, it will be remembered, is to lecture at the Casino, next Sunday evening, in a recent address referred to Coxeyism and said:

"These Coxey armies have been produced, I presume, first by hard times, by lack of work, but secondly, and mostly, by a false idea of the Government. These people imagine that the Government is under obligations to do something for them. They think the Government is a source of wealth; that the Government can give money and employment. Now the fact is the Government cannot support the people. The people have to support the Government. The Government is a pauper and lives only on the labor of the folks."

—Mrs. Martha [illegible], who is visiting her daughter, at Auburn, N. Y., has been quite seriously ill, but at last accounts was convalescing and is expected home soon.

—We don't have a very good opinion of a man, who will hang around the polls all day to sell his vote for three dollars and at the last moment take two. Still we hear of such men being at Deckertown, at the last election.

DOCTORS DISCOURAGED—RELIEF FOUND.

Mr. O. H. Bartholomew, Kalkaska, Mich., writes: "Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy saved my life, when I was a victim of Bright's disease." If you are suffering from Bright's disease, diabetes, or any urinary trouble, you should use this only cure. "I had been troubled since 1869," writes S. N. Arnold, of Rochester, N. Y., "with gravel and catarrh of the bladder. Tried several doctors, but got no relief. Upon advice, I used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. The result was marvelous; a few bottles entirely cured me."

A PENNSYLVANIA ELECTION CONTEST

A Recount of Votes That Disappointed the Contestant.

At the recent election in Honesdale there was a very close contest for collector of taxes, the count of the election officers showing 205 votes for D. C. Osborne, 204 for A. F. Voigt and 122 for Thomas Calloway.

Mr. Voigt, who had just missed an election, found that two or three illegal votes had been cast for Mr. Osborne and he applied to the court for a recount of the votes, which was made by the court and which showed Osborne 200 votes; Voigt 195; Calloway 122.

The Independent says:

At this writing the exact costs cannot be given, but it is estimated that the borough will have to pay from $150 to $200, while the court costs will be paid by the county. The result gives Mr. Osborne a larger majority than at first and some good has been accomplished. Voters in this vicinity will be more careful in ascertaining their right to vote and the election boards will also be likely to exercise more care.

JEWELERS IN SESSION.

WORSE THAN SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUSTS.

From the Elmira Gazette.

The seventeen year locust is due and has already made its appearance in some localities. Scientists ever since the beginning of the century have been studying the habits and mode of life of this genus, trying to arrive at the laws of its being. The only thing which they have been able to settle with certainty is its periodicity, but whether that period is one of eleven or thirteen years is still uncertain. They have been unable to ascertain any good purpose to be subserved by its existence. They fail to find the place of its origin or its final destination. Its distinguishing characteristics are its appetite and its propensity to travel. It toils not neither does it spin, but that does not hinder it from living well and traveling far. It is not dangerous in the sense of being ferocious, but it has a way of enforcing its demands through the strength of aggregated numbers and organized appetite. There is a striking resemblance between the seventeen year locust and Coxey's army of the commonweal. Both seem equally without other object and motive than to eat and travel. Both have about the same method of enforcing their demands for a livelihood. The end to be subserved by their existence is equally unfathomable in the case of the one as the other. It is a remarkable coincidence that both should make their appearance at the same time. And it is worse than a coincidence. They both live off the farming community. The farmer's lot has not been a happy one in recent years of scanty crops and falling prices. It will be hard enough to contend with the Acrydium Americanum without the additional burden of the army of the commonweal. In the case of the first there are compensations which are utterly lacking in the latter. The farmer's geese, ducks, chickens and turkeys thrive during a plenitude of locusts, while there is nothing more fatal to their existence than an army of tramps. Both the farmers and the poultry have fallen upon evil times for what shall it profit a fowl to grow fat on succulent grasshoppers only to minister in turn to the appetite of a Coxey tramp?

THURSDAY, MAY 3, 1894.

The nomination of Hon. Thomas E. Benedict, to be Public Printer, was favorably reported in the executive session of the Senate, yesterday. A press dispatch received this afternoon announces that the nomination was confirmed, to-day.

There is one unanswerable answer to any contention that the Legislature was sincere in its efforts to secure ballot reform and that is that it fooled away its time with this question for four months and finally, on the eve of adjournment, united on a measure that it knew the Governor would not approve.

Senator Hill was before the Senate Committee on Judiciary, yesterday, to oppose a favorable report on the nominations of F. C. Peck, as Marshal for the Northern New York District, and of J. L. Bennett and Wallace McFarlane, as United States District Attorneys for the Eastern and Southern Districts. Rather than delay action on the tariff bill by a wrangle over these nominations the committee decided to postpone action on them.

Collector Kilbreth, of New York, is wrestling with the knotty problem, how much is a sick monkey worth. A showman imported two chimpanzees, which were invoiced as worth $150. The customs officials thought this too low and appraised them at $500. The monkeys have now developed pneumonia and are in a fair way to die, and their owner is master of the situation, telling the customs officials that if they think sick monkeys worth more than $150 they had better seize them.

William Mowbray, a British Anarchist, who has gained considerable notoriety by his incendiary harangues, and who is said to have been in jail several times for his plots and lawless deeds, is on his way to this country, with the expectation of being made the leader of the most extreme group of Anarchists in New York. It would seem to be the plain duty of the immigration officials and the police to send this fellow back on the very first ship that leaves New York. We have enough cranks without importing them.

When small-pox became alarmingly prevalent in Brooklyn, the Health Department, realizing the necessity of prompt action, organized a vaccinating corps of physicians and set them at work in the sections of the city in which the disease had gained its strongest foothold. Now that they have done the work they were appointed to do, the members of the corps cannot get their pay, for the Civil Service Commission refuses to certify the pay rolls on the ground that the doctors did not pass civil service examinations before appointment. Was there ever such a humbug? Small-pox must be permitted to breed and fester and spread all over the city, while doctors are subjected to a ridiculous examination before civil service inquisitors, that it may be determined whether they are competent to scratch arms.

The election of Paul J. Sorg, Democrat, as Representative in Congress from the Third Ohio District, at the special election, Tuesday, by a majority of over 2,000, is more of a victory and more replete with significance than was at first supposed. The district, which is naturally Democratic, gave McKinley a majority of 600 last fall, and at the local elections this spring the Republicans made heavy gains on their majorities of last fall, and these majorities were heralded far and wide as the protest of Ohio's workingmen against Democratic tariff reform. When the death of Representative Houk made a special election necessary the Democrats, with the courage of their convictions, made tariff reform the issue. It was the Wilson bill against McKinleyism, and the result of the square fight in one of the most populous districts in Ohio, and one which is full of factories, is full of cheer to loyal Democrats. The greatest Democratic gains were in the industrial centres. For instance, Hamilton city went Democratic by 1,183 majority, Dayton by 196, and Middletown, usually strong Republican, by 104. The agricultural districts did almost as well as the manufacturing centres. The victory should serve as an incentive to Democrats in Congress to make good their party's pledges to the people. The people have not changed. They believe in tariff reform as heartily now as they did in 1892. If they have seemed to waver in their faith it was merely because they turned aside to rebuke their representatives for inexcusable delay and inaction.

THE MURDER OF FRANK HENDERSON.

Prisoner Ryan Believed to Have Confessed—Rewards for Homer Sarvis and Three Other Bandits.

It is believed in Newburgh that Martin Ryan, who was, yesterday, held for the grand jury, for connection with the murder of Frank Henderson, has confessed and implicated Homer Sarvis and three other bridge bandits in the crime. Marshal Sarvis refused to give any information but up to yesterday afternoon no mention had been made by the police of Homer Sarv's having had any connection with the murder. Yet yesterday afternoon postal cards were ordered printed. One of them was as follows:

ARREST.

Homer Sarvis is 24 years old; height 5 feet 9½ inches; weight, 130 pounds; florid complexion, light brown hair, blue eyes, smooth face; wears dark clothes and slouch hat; works on railroads as brakeman.

To the card was attached a photograph of Homer, and it told that on Wednesday, April 24th, he "burglarized and shot and killed Frank Henderson." A reward of $100 is offered with the request to wire all information to James H. Sarvis, Chief of Police, Newburgh, N. Y.

The other card contained the following descriptions:

THOMAS VAUGHAN, alias Tucker Vaughan, height, 5 feet 7 inches; weight, 130 pounds; slim built; hair, light sandy; light blue eyes; wore a double-breasted sack coat, dark pants, russet shoes, aged 18.

JOHN GREGORY, aged 20; height 5 feet 5 inches; weight 145 pounds; red complexion; dark hair; one eye is peculiar and inflamed; double-breasted sack coat, dark pants, soft hat.

JOHN O'NEIL, aged 22; height, 5 feet 9 inches; dark brown hair; dark complexion; dark eyes; weight about 150 pounds, slightly bow-legged; smooth face and very pimply; wore dark cutaway sack coat, light pair of pants; size of hat No. 7; walks with a swagger; generally has both hands in his pockets.

The card also said that these had "burglarized and shot and killed Frank Henderson." A reward of $25 for each being offered.

These cards do not say that the men "are charged" with doing these things, but that they "did" it.

THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

The Cars to be Started This Week.

The electric cars will soon be running in our streets. Nearly every thing is readiness for the trial trip of the cars. The engines, dynamos, etc., are all here and in position, and an insignificant little pulley is all that has stood between Middletown and the electric railway for several days, but this little difficulty will be overcome before many hours, and if we are not mistaken the cars will be running before the dawn of another Sunday. Men are engaged, to-day, in clearing the earth away from the rails.

Will It Be Belgian Blocks Again?

It is common talk that the city officials, to settle the matter of the North street paving, will relay the Belgian blocks. This work can of course be ordered regardless of the wishes of property owners, and is probably a result of the objections raised by certain persons against the removal of the stones without compensation for the money already expended on public improvements.

AN ADVENTURE WITH A BURGLAR

A Nocturnal Prowler in Mr. B. G. Woodward's House—Feigns Drunkenness When Found—Escapes While Being Taken to the Police Station—An Unsuccessful Pursuit.

Mr. B. G. Woodward had an unpleasant encounter with a burglar, last night, and in thinking the matter over, to-day, he is congratulating himself upon getting out of the scrape as easily as he did.

About 10 o'clock the family, with the exception of Mrs. Woodward, retired, the latter remaining for over an hour in the library. Shortly after she had retired and before she had fallen asleep, she thought she heard a door open on the lower floor. The electric light at the corner of Highland avenue and West Main street throws a very bright light throughout the house, and going to the head of the stairs, Mrs. Woodward, hearing some one moving about down stairs, called out, "Who is there?" A strange voice answered, "Me." "Well, who is me?" was her next question, to which no answer was returned. Mrs. Woodward at once awakened her husband and her son, Harry.

Partly dressing themselves, they hurried down stairs, where they found a man lying full length upon a roll of carpet in the parlor, feigning sleep. Mr. Woodward shook him, and he apparently awoke out of a deep slumber, and in a maudlin tone inquired: "What's the matter. Zis Bob Wengatz hotel?" He appeared to be very drunk and, Mr. Woodward unlocking the front door, started out with him to turn him over to the police. His son, Harry, wanted to accompany his father, but the burglar was to all appearances in such a helpless state of intoxication that Mr. Woodward thought he could handle him alone, and told his son to remain at home.

When in front of the residence of Mr. Charles Crane, the burglar wanted to know where he was being taken, and said that he had not stolen anything and wanted to return to the house to prove it. But Mr. Woodward insisted upon his going on, when the fellow made a dash for liberty. Mr. W. had a strong hold of him, and in a moment the two were struggling in the middle of the street, the now thoroughly sober burglar getting the best of the fight, and making good his escape. Mr. Woodward yelled "Police" at the top of his voice, and Mr. Crane ran out of his house to assist.

The burglar turned into Union street and doubled upon his pursuers, coming back on Main street about in the same place where he had made his first dash for liberty. He then ran to the Erie crossing, which was blocked by an east bound freight train. He crawled under the cars, just as the train started out. When the crossing was clear, the pursuers inquired of a citizen on the opposite side of the track if he had seen the man, and in which direction he had gone. He informed them that a man had crawled under the train and had climbed on top of a box car, thus making sure of his escape.

Mr. Woodward describes the man as being about twenty-five years of age, smooth shaven, of medium height, dressed in a dark suit of clothes and a derby hat.

Investigation showed that the burglar had first tried to gain an entrance through the laundry in the basement, but had had finally entered the house through the kitchen window.

He had previously tried to enter the residence of Mr. I. Willis Crane, but Mrs. Crane, hearing a noise, had called out and the fellow ran away.

The same man, it is believed, entered the sleeping room of Mrs. Robert Wengatz, about 11 30 o'clock, and while rummaging under the pillow aroused Mrs. Wengatz, who made an outcry.

The man made for the door and was intercepted by Mr. Wengatz at the foot of the stairs, but managed to make his escape in the darkness. He was recognized, however, and will doubtless soon be arrested.

Funeral of Elbert Osborn.

The body of Elbert Osborne, whose death in Newark, N. J., has been mentioned in this paper, arrived on Erie train No. 1, to-day, and was taken to the home of his brother-in-law, James Moore, No. 100 North street, where a funeral service was held at 12 30 p. m., Rev. Dr. Darwood, officiating.

The interment took place in Hillside Cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. Frank W. Elliott, J. C. May, P. H. Minshull and Edward Thorpe.

Brought to Middletown for Burial.

The body of Peter Helm, who died at 187 Lawrence street, Brooklyn, Tuesday, of apoplexy, aged eighty-two years, was brought to this city, on the Susquehanna and Western mail train, at noon, to-day, and interred in Hillside Cemetery. Mr. Helm was a carpenter and builder and was a resident of Middletown, twenty-five years ago.

MANAGERS' REPORT.

The sixth annual report of the managers, submitted by the secretary, Mrs. Morgan, is as follows:

The managers record with reverent thankfulness another year of prosperity under divine protection.

As there are not many changes in the work as the years come and go, necessarily there must be much sameness in the yearly reports.

The work of the Home, in all its different departments, is assigned to various committees, and the faithful prosecution of this work, not free from perplexities, is due to individual and united effort.

The members of our visiting committee have made frequent calls at the Home, and they always speak with satisfaction of the efficiency of our matron, Mrs. Jarvis, under whose supervision the household affairs are economically and well conducted, her time and energies being devoted to the welfare of the Home.

We are often asked this question,—have you much trouble in managing the Home?—No. Our greatest annoyance emanates from the outside world, and I think the managers of all public institutions suffer more or less from the same cause. It is a notable fact throughout the land, that members of the society, who have never been officially connected with, nor given their time to the work and management of such an institution, are the very folk, who know they know just how such public charities should be managed.

We aim to provide a comfortable home, not a luxurious one, for worthy aged women, where they are warmed, clothed, and fed on plain, but wholesome food, and those who come to us under that title are as happy and contented as old ladies in general are, in whatever household they may be found.

We have had very little sickness in the family during the past year; no serious illness beyond the usual ailments attended upon old age.

But one death has occurred this year. Miss Mary House, from Chester, died of general debility, April 20th, aged seventy-six years and seven months, in the family five and one-half years.

Since our last yearly meeting we have admitted six old ladies, and been compelled to refuse many for want of room.

Our applications are always in excess of our accommodations.

Last year we fitted up the second story in the house on the adjoining lot, owned by the society, and connected it with the Home proper. By so doing we accommodate four more inmates.

We now have sixteen old ladies under our care, a superintendent and matron, a nurse employed by the month, and one domestic, which makes in all twenty in the family.

Our physicians, Dr. J. L. Hanmer and Dr. D. B. Smiley, who have given of their time, experience and medicine gratuitously, are most sincerely thanked for their services, which are so cheerfully given, and which are of so much value to the society.

The Thanksgiving offerings were generous and furnished abundant supplies for the winter months

We received from the Union Thanksgiving services of the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches of Chester the sum of $17 87; from Washingtonville, $13; Montgomery, $11 13

The annual fair, conducted for the most part by the ladies of the auxiliary, and held but one afternoon and evening, was a success and netted the society over $400.

We fully appreciate the work of this organization, and heartily thank the members for the favors thus conferred.

Every year we receive gratuitously the ARGUS, Press and Times of Middletown, and the Journal, of Newburgh, besides many friendly notices in these papers.

These favors are greatly enjoyed by the inmates and appreciated by the managers.

The society has not been the recipient of any legacies this year, but has received many individual gifts which helped very materially to make up the budget necessary to defray the yearly expenses.

Within the last month we have purchased a large lot adjoining that of the soldiers in the Phillipsburgh Cemetery, wherein to bury those who have no selected spot.

In conclusion we would say that the work of the managers, while often trying and perplexing, has been full of compensations in many ways; and we rejoice that our efforts have been crowned with success, and thank our friends for their generous aid, trusting that the claims of this worthy charity may ever find a warm response in the hearts of the benevolent.

OBITUARY.

Daniel L. Carmichael.

Daniel L. Carmichael died, last night, aged fifty-three years, four months. He was a son of Calvin and Nancy Billcott Carmichael. His father was a large railroad contractor and prominent citizen of Middletown.

The deceased went West a number of years ago and was a member of the firm of Phillips & Carmichael in Chicago, and later was in the hardware business in Wessington, South Dakota. His health failed several years ago and he returned home hoping to be benefited by the change. After his return to this city he became a member of the firm of Carmichael Brothers, flour and feed dealers on Henry street, and was connected with it at the time of his death.

He was a loving son and brother and will be sincerely mourned. The members of his family are his mother, two sisters and a brother living in Middletown; a brother, Dr. O. B. Carmichael, dentist in Newark, N. J.; a married sister, Mrs. O. H. Dodge and half-sister, Mrs. W. T. B. Read, of Chicago, Ill.; also a sister, Mrs. H. R. Draper, residing in South Dakota.

The funeral notice will appear later.

Caroline Frederica Petry.

Mrs. Caroline Frederica Petry, mention of whose death was made, yesterday, was the widow of the late Henry Petry. She came to Middletown in 1873 from New York, and carried on a grocery store at the corner of Beattie avenue and Prince street, until about ten years ago, when her son-in-law, Mr. J. Henry Smith, took charge of the business.

Mrs. Petry is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Smith, and by three sisters and a half brother, all of New York city.

The funeral will be held from her late residence, Saturday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

Charlotte Rutherford

Mrs. Charlotte Rutherford, widow of the late John Rutherford, died very suddenly, this morning, at her home in Warwick. She had been in feeble health for several months, as a result of an attack of grip, but her death was entirely unexpected. Her husband, who died in 1873, was a member of a very old New Jersey family, the Rutherfords being one of the oldest and most prominent families in the State. Their ancestral home is at Tranquility, on the Warren county line.

Mrs. Rutherford is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Alfred R. Ely, of Warwick, and a son, Morris Rutherford.

HAPPY BABYHOOD.

Every mother wants her baby to thrive, because a healthy child is a happy child. The question of how the baby shall be fed is demanding the attention, as never before, not only of the mothers in the land, but of the entire medical profession also, because it is now realized how much the health of a child can be influenced by proper nutrition during the years of babyhood. As the result of the improper feeding of the infant, the vitality of the child is impaired, and he grows up weak and puny. In these days when artificial food is being so generally resorted to for infants, the demand for a substitute for mother's milk has brought out many foods for which great claims are made. Gustav Mellin, an English chemist, was the first to discover and combine the requisite properties necessary for an artificial food, and with his discovery the rational feeding of infants commenced.

Mellin's Food is the only perfect substitute for mother's milk, and it has done more to make babies strong and healthy than anything else that has ever been invented. Mellin's Food possesses all the requisite heat and flesh producing and bone-forming constituents necessary to give a child health, vigor and vitality. Infants are exceedingly fond of it and thrive upon it when nothing else can be retained upon the stomach. If they have been weak, fretful and troublesome they become happy, healthy and active; bright eyes, rosy cheeks, firm muscles and a strong constitution are the inevitable results of using this excellent preparation. Mellin's Food, being highly nutritious and easily digested, is also perfectly adapted to the wants of invalids and convalescents.

FAIR STAR GAZERS.

San Francisco Society Girls Flirting With the Constellations.

Astronomy is the latest fad of San Francisco society girls with scientific tendencies. The success of Miss Dorothea Klumpke, the California girl who got the degree of doctor of mathematics from the Sorbonne in Paris, seems to have aroused their emulative faculties, and they are going in for astronomy with an enthusiasm that could not be developed anywhere else than beneath their own sunny skies. They have the advantage, too, of being able to receive instruction from a woman who has gained considerable reputation as an astronomer and gained it in spite of obstacles that would have seemed insurmountable to any less courageous spirit.

ROSE O'HALLORAN.

This is Miss Rose O'Halloran, the only woman member of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, an honor which was accorded her on the nomination of Professor Holden of the great Lick observatory. Miss O'Halloran devotes her life to the scientific study of the stars, doing a great deal of original work and gaining a livelihood by instructing ambitious young women in the rudiments of her favorite science. She has a small 4½ inch Brashear refracting telescope to assist her observations, and her observatory is an ordinary room with two windows, one of which has a northern view, and the other an eastern exposure. When Miss O'Halloran desires to extend her horizon she moves her telescope out upon the roof of the back kitchen, where she has an unobstructed sweep in three directions.

With no better conveniences than these Miss O'Halloran's zeal has accomplished some excellent results. On every favorable day during the past three years she has made observations of the spots on the sun, and she was among the earliest, if not the very first, to discover the great spot group of January and February, 1892. At night Miss O'Halloran looks after variable stars in the constellation of the Scorpion, about which she expects to publish a book some day, though she says it will take years to collect the necessary data. She has already published several notable articles in magazines and scientific journals, thereby considerably augmenting her slender income.

Miss O'Halloran is an Irish woman of gentle birth and received an early education befitting the daughter of a country gentleman without any idea that she would ever have to earn a living. She always felt an especial interest in astronomy and naturally consulted her taste when, after her father's death, she found it necessary to teach for a livelihood.

THE LION OF ATLANTA.

A Copy of the Lion of Lucerne to Commemorate the Confederate Dead.

The unknown soldiers who sacrificed their lives in the great lost cause of the southern confederacy are commemorated by a magnificent monument erected at Atlanta by the ladies of the Confederate Memorial association in the cemetery at Oakland. The design of the monument is eminently appropriate to the purpose for which it is designed. It is a reduced copy of Thorwaldsen's famous "Lion of Lucerne," which commemorates on the shore of Lake Leman, in Switzerland, the valor and fidelity of the famous guard of Swiss soldiers who fell defending Louis XVI of France and his family from an attack of revolutionists.

This famous Swiss monument is an object of interest to all travelers in the little republic. It is the figure of a gigantic lion in the throes of death. An arrow has pierced the heart of the beast, and between its feet is a shield on which is a device of Bourbon lilies. The figure has been cut into the face of a precipice 75 feet high, the whole face of the rock having been carved out so as to leave the lion standing in bold relief. Though the lion is dying, there is evidence of strength in the figure, and the whole monument is exceedingly impressive. It is situated in a park on the outskirts of Lucerne. The precipice rises abruptly out of the water, and the visitor views the memorial from the other side of the lake.

THE LION OF ATLANTA.

The "Lion of Lucerne" is 28 feet in length. That of Atlanta is 9 feet long, and it is a faithful reproduction of Thorwaldsen's great work in all respects, save that instead of Bourbon lilies the device upon the shield is the Confederate battleflag. The monument is wrought entirely of Georgia stone, the lion being carved out of a block of white marble and resting upon a base of gray. The work of the sculptor is well done, and the finish of the monument is really admirable.

Stone Money in Manilla.

The Yaps of Manilla use a certain stone as money. Some of the pieces are several feet in diameter and very valuable. If a man goes to the island where this money is found, secures a piece and has the misfortune to lose it on the return voyage, he has only to show a certificate from the maker of the stone money that the Yap really possessed it. This certificate passes as cash.

Rousseau and Millet.

Rousseau and Millet were very unlike, as one may infer from their work. Rousseau was essentially a landscape painter, and it was in the woods that he found his favorite themes. The splendors of the setting sun or sheltered nooks in the woods were subjects he was fond of painting. Beautiful effects like these enraptured him, and naturally he sought to reproduce them. Millet, like Rousseau, was an admirer of the grandeur and richness of nature, but he was more deeply moved by another sentiment. In his mind it was man who played the principal part, and to his eyes the landscape was the stage on which the drama of humanity was represented. The continued labor which the life of man demands, his sufferings, his pains as well as his joys, his pleasures, his weariness, his rest, his peace—these were the conditions that appealed most strongly to François' imagination, and it was these which he felt himself driven to paint.—Pierre Millet in Century.

Going Far For a Precedent.

It is about 15 years since the District of Columbia courts ceased to consider Good Friday a nonjudicial day. In Chief Justice Cartter's court at that time the old custom was first changed. Said the late Hon. Richard T. Merrick to the late Chief Justice Cartter:

"You will not hold court tomorrow?"

"Why not?" said the chief justice.

"It will be Good Friday," answered Mr. Merrick. "Court has never been held on that day."

"This court will be held," declared the chief justice.

"Then," said Mr. Merrick, "your honor will be the first judge who has held court on that day since Pontius Pilate."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe,

How Much a Broker Made Out of a Little Transaction.

The ways of the New York broker are artful, and his eyes are always open for an opportunity. When he has a chance to "make a good bargain," he doesn't let grass grow under his feet.

The head of a steamship company recently said to a Wall street broker:

"I wish I could get a certain pier privilege. It's so and so."

"Well, why don't you go and get it?" asked the broker.

"I can't seem to get hold of it."

"The pier business," said the broker, "isn't in my line, but how much would you give me for this privilege if I got it?"

"I'll give you $[illegible] a month for a year."

The broker said that he would see what he could do. The pier was owned by a Philadelphia man, and the next afternoon the man from Wall street walked into the office of the pier owner in Philadelphia.

"I want you to buy some bonds," he said.

"Don't want to buy anything," was the answer. "I'm selling."

"But these are gilt edged. You never saw anything better."

"Can't buy anything. Haven't any money. Got a lot of things on my hands that aren't paying a cent. These are hard times, I tell you. I've got stores that I can't rent, bills that I can't collect. Why, there's a pier over in your city that isn't doing what it ought to do for me. A privilege there is just begging for some one to take it."

"Well," said the broker, "I want to sell you some of these bonds. We might make a 'dicker' on the pier. I guess I could get rid of it. Will you take the bonds off my hands if I take the pier privilege off yours?"

"I don't want bonds."

"Wouldn't you take them to get rid of your pier?"

"No, I am carrying all I want."

"Well, maybe I'll take your pier anyway. How much do you want for it?"

"Three thousand dollars a year."

The broker thought he might as well take the privilege, even if they couldn't make a bargain on bonds. The next morning he went to the New York steamship man.

"I can get that pier for you for a year," he said.

"At what figure?"

"Your own figure—$[illegible] a year."

The privilege was taken right then and there, the contract signed, and the broker was just $[illegible] better off. A short time after this the steamship man met the broker again.

"Say, X.," he said, "tell me now, just for fun, what did you make out of that pier business?"

"Car fare," answered the broker unblushingly.

"Car fare!"

"Yes, car fare—around the world."—New York Tribune.

Mr. Frank Lockwood, the eminent English Q. C., has a well deserved reputation as a humorist, as the following will show:

Mr. Lockwood, having been invited to stay for a couple of days at a friend's country house, decided to accept the invitation if his host were willing to extend his hospitality for an additional two days. The genial Q. C. therefore telegraphed:

May I come for two days?

And the message was duly delivered to Mr. X., who, after paying 6 shillings for its delivery, replied:

Yes, of course, but don't telegraph.

Toward evening the mounted telegraph messenger again appeared and once more demanded a further 6 shillings for his services. The telegram when opened read as follows:

Why Not? LOCKWOOD.

A Little Toe Willing to Sing—Telephone Wires Going Under Ground in Elmira—A North Street Improvement.

The perils of asking a small boy, who is supposed to be able to sing, and who has been taught a few songs for the edification and entertainment of the family circle, to make use of his vocal gifts, was illustrated not long ago in Homer, N. Y. A service of song was being held, one Sunday afternoon, in the Old Ladies Home, under the direction of one of the clergymen of the village. One of the ladies present had brought her five-year-old boy with her—a youngster who has been taught a few songs, which he is in the habit of singing on any and all occasions whenever the least pretext for doing so is afforded. The boy was sitting near a lady, who knew that he was supposed to be able to sing, but who did not know his anxiety to display his vocal gifts. Noticing that the youngster was getting restless, and thinking to interest him in the service the lady whispered to him, "You sing, don't you?" Without further urging the little chap got to his feet and, in a shrill, childish treble, with great expression and with very evident delight, sang, "Maggie Murphy's Home." All listened with undisguised amazement until the youngster had finished the first stanza, and then the minister in charge of the meeting pulled himself together enough to smilingly tell the boy that he needn't sing any more just then, and the service went on all the better for this amusing little episode.

Elmira's telephone company is preparing to put its wires under ground. The work will be done gradually. A beginning will be made in the central part of the city, where the wires are most numerous. It is expected that this year $20,000 will be spent. The company will make provision for the future by laying wires in its conduits sufficient to accommodate all increase of business that can reasonably be expected for the next twenty years. The advantages that will accrue to the company by putting its wires underground will be relief from the constant and heavy expense of renewals and repairs that an overhead system requires, while its patrons will be freed from all danger resulting from the crossing of telephone wires with electric light and trolley wires with their strong currents.

If it is a good thing to put wires underground in Elmira why would it not be a good thing in Middletown? I don't, of course, expect that the Hudson River Telephone Company will voluntarily incur such an expense; it's run on the plan of getting all it can and keeping all its gets. But looking at the network of wires on North street, and you have only a vague idea how many there are of them unless you stand on the corner of Orchard street and begin to count them, it has occurred to me that no greater public improvement could be made than to put them all under ground. Telephone and telegraph companies alike seem to have settled on North street as the best street for their offices, and a conduit large enough to accommodate their wires and the electric light and fire alarm wires could be laid at no very great cost to all the concerns in interest. For the present it would suffice if the conduit was laid from Franklin Square to the Erie track. I don't know that the Common Council has power to order the wires put underground,—but that is a matter that can easily be arranged by an amendment to the charter, next winter. The work could then be done in the summer of 1895, and the ground would have plenty of time in which to settle before the talk of repaving the street, in which some enthusiasts are now indulging, materializes into anything more than talk.

THE BASE BALL SEASON OPENED

The Asylums Defeat the Columbias on the Hospital Grounds—Many Errors and a Great Deal of Kicking Other Games Arranged For.

The base ball season in this city was opened, yesterday, by a game between the Asylums and Columbias. Both teams showed a lack of practice and errors were of frequent occurrence. The features of the game were the batting of "Cuban," the Asylums dusky mascot, who filled the center field gap, and the ability of each and every player to kick at the decisions made by the umpire.

The following is the summary of the game:

PENSION AGENT HANSEE'S METHODS

Six Special Examiners Investigating Them—Ten Indictments Against Him.

Six special pension examiners are investigating the methods of Jesse C. Hansee, pension agent of Ellenville, and more recently of Hoboken, and believe that they have unearthed one of the greatest schemes for plunder ever worked on the Pension Department. They say that they expect to prove that at least 2,000 fraudulent applications, half of them from Ellenville, have been made through Hansee's agency and that at least 600 fraudulent pensions have been secured through him.

His method is said to have been to have had applicants identified by clerks in his own office and he is also said to have employed a notary named Seymour in Hoboken, and a young woman named Lillian E. Ostrander, of Ellenville, also a notary, to attest the signatures of claimants and witnesses, and it is said that this was done without the attesting notaries seeing either of the parties.

Miss Ostrander is expected to be a witness for the government at the trial of the cases against Hansee. Seven indictments have been found against him by the United States Grand Jury in Trenton, on which he has been held in $10,500 bail, and the United States Grand Jury in New York found three indictments against him this week.

Called to the Pastorate of the North Street Church.

At a business meeting of the congregation of the North Street Congregational Church held, last evening, it was unanimously voted to extend a call to Rev. J. W. Norris, who preached in the church a week ago last Sunday. Mr. Norris is a recent graduate of the Yale College Divinity School, and has been preaching for three years of his theological course. He is about thirty-three years of age and made a most favorable impression when he visited this city.
